JONESBORO, ARKANSAS The Disc Golf Pro Tour is less than two months from returning to Northeast Arkansas for the 10th annual Play It Again Sports Jonesboro Open - presented by Westside Discs. The DGPT returns to Disc Side of Heaven and Jonesboro after taking the 2025 season off to allow for course work to take place. With the return, several sponsors are returning and several new sponsors coming on board.

One big change this year is the location of the Players Party. Native Brew Works, located on Gee Street in Jonesboro, has agreed to host the Players Party on Friday, April 17. This event is open to all professionals, amateurs and fans of the tournament. This marks the second Jonesboro Open Native has been a part of and they reached out to the tournament to increase their participation.

Jackson Spencer, from Native had this to say regarding the sponsorship. "Native is proud to help Disc Side of Heaven bring the Jonesboro Open back to our hometown. This is one of the only events in our community that brings people from all over the world! The economic impact is very important to Jonesboro. Also, it's an incredibly cool event and we are just excited to be involved."

Not only has Native agreed to host the Players Party, they are going to do a specialized craft beer, the Party Hill Pilsner, to commemorate the tournament. This special brew will be available just for a few weeks in April leading up to the Tournament. Party Hill is the nicknamed hillside at Disc Side of Heaven where fans can see part or all of 7 different holes of play including the exciting #15 island hole.

A portion of the proceeds from this year's event will go directly to The Learning Center of Northeast Arkansas, INC. Since 1959, TLC has provided trained, attentive developmental therapies to children from infancy to early adolescence as well as developmentally disabled adults. Our mission is to provide a service that benefits the community of people with disabilities.
